V. Conclusions on the national implementation of the Convention on Biological Diversity and the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework

In the present section, Parties are encouraged to provide a summary of the national implementation of the Convention on Biological Diversity and the Framework, including the main achievements and major challenges encountered, in particular those related to capacity, technical, technological, institutional and financial gaps and constraints, and support provided for implementation. Parties could refer to cross-cutting challenges affecting the implementation of the Convention and the Framework or specific obstacles that have hindered progress. Those challenges may include lack of adequate financial, human and technical resources; difficulties regarding interministerial or inter-agency cooperation and coordination; lack of timely and reliable access to knowledge, information and data; lack of the scientific expertise needed to support project development and management; and lack of access to relevant technology for implementation. Parties should try to avoid duplication if relevant information is covered in the sections above.

Provide a summary assessment of the implementation of the Convention and the Framework, including all the sections of the Framework, and the main achievements and major challenges encountered and, where applicable, resolved, in particular those related to capacity, technical, technological, institutional and financial gaps and constraints, and support provided for implementation.

Annex II

Communication of commitments by actors other than national governments¹³

I. General principles for including commitments from actors other than national governments in the enhanced multidimensional approach to planning, monitoring, reporting and review

1. The Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework¹⁴ embraces a whole-of-government and whole-of-society approach, and its success relies on the action and cooperation of all actors in society. Actors other than national governments are encouraged to communicate commitments, on a voluntary basis, toward the implementation of the Framework with a particular focus on national targets, national biodiversity strategies and action plans, contributing, where appropriate to global targets or to any of these. Actors other than national governments contributions can have a positive effect on implementation and strengthen collaboration across all sectors of society. The submission of information on commitments from actors other than national governments can make a valuable contribution to the enhanced multidimensional approach to planning, monitoring, reporting and review and should be guided by the following considerations:

- (a) Standardized guidelines and templates for communicating the commitments of actors other than national governments may improve information-sharing and national reporting, as appropriate, and a global-level review. Communicating commitments for actors other than national governments should be as simple as possible, while allowing them to demonstrate that they contribute to the implementation of the Framework with a particular focus on national targets, national biodiversity strategies and action plans, or both;

¹³ The list of actors is listed in paragraph 26 of decision 15/6: “indigenous peoples and local communities, subnational governments, cities and other local authorities, intergovernmental organizations, other multilateral environmental agreements, non-governmental organizations, women, youth, research organizations, the business and finance community and representatives of sectors related to or dependent on biodiversity”.

¹⁴ Decision 15/4, annex.

(b) The use of established and available metrics, including relevant indicators from the monitoring framework for the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework¹⁵ and national targets and national biodiversity strategies and action plans, as appropriate, is highly recommended, whenever possible, as such metrics may provide information that can improve the monitoring of the Framework, in particular when baselines are being established in relation to impacts on biodiversity and to demonstrate progress over time;

(c) In recognizing the different circumstances of actors other than national governments, the proposed template will allow for some flexibility, while ensuring that relevant information about commitments is captured;

(d) The template recognizes that countries have different modalities to engage with actors other than national governments in the revision or update of national biodiversity strategies and action plans, including national targets, and to include their contributions in those strategies and plans and in national reports.

2. Actors other than national governments may communicate their commitments by using the standardized template, or national focal points who wish to do so could communicate on their behalf, through uploading them in the online reporting tool of the clearing-house mechanism¹⁶. Information will be shared with the relevant national focal points of the Convention through an automated notification sent to Parties that wish to be informed of information shared on the portal.

3. National focal points, who wish to do so, will be able to view the commitments submitted by actors other than national governments before publication on a no-objection basis.

4. Actors other than national governments that submitted commitments, or national focal points who communicated on their behalf, are encouraged to communicate progress towards achieving those commitments and upload them to the portal mentioned in paragraph 2, on a voluntary basis and are invited, when possible, to send them prior to the relevant deadlines set out in decision 15/6.

5. The commitments communicated by actors other than national governments are made exclusively for the contributions the objectives of the Convention, including the Framework, including its goals and targets, and they do not have any implications regarding the recognition of territorial sovereignty or the legal status of a State, territory, area or their authorities, where applicable.
