INFORMAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON CAPACITY-BUILDING FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE NAGOYA PROTOCOL

First meeting
Montreal, 15-17 September 2015

COMPILATION OF CAPACITY-BUILDING AND DEVELOPMENT TOOLS AND RESOURCES SUPPORTING THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE NAGOYA PROTOCOL ON ACCESS AND BENEFIT-SHARING

Note by the Executive Secretary

1. At its first meeting, the Conference of the Parties serving as the meeting of the Parties to the Nagoya Protocol on Access to Genetic Resources and the Fair and Equitable Sharing of Benefits Arising from their Utilization (COP-MOP) adopted a strategic framework for capacity-building and development to support the implementation of the Nagoya Protocol (decision NP-1/8). The COP-MOP also established an informal advisory committee (IAC) to provide advice to the Executive Secretary on matters of relevance to the assessment of the effectiveness of the strategic framework. One of the specific tasks of the Informal Advisory Committee stipulated in its terms of reference (annex II of decision NP-1/8) is: “providing advice regarding the need for the development of new tools, guidelines and training materials, including e-learning modules, to facilitate capacity-building and development initiatives of Parties, other governments, indigenous and local communities and other stakeholders.”
2. The present document provides a compilation of various access and benefit-sharing (ABS) capacity-building tools and resources developed over the past few years, prior to and after the adoption of the Nagoya Protocol. It includes information collected by the Secretariat from various sources, including the submissions received as of 21 August 2015 from members of the informal advisory committee in response to the invitation that was sent by the Secretariat.
3. In preparing the compilation, ABS capacity-building tools and resources were considered to be those whose primary intent was to facilitate structured learning, to teach new knowledge and skills through progressive instructive steps and/or to provide guidance to users on how to perform specific tasks related to access and benefit-sharing. These tools and resources are presented in table 1, available in the annex to this document.
4. A number of awareness-raising materials were also submitted to the Secretariat by the participants in the Informal Advisory Committee (e.g. videos, posters, fact sheets, policy briefs, power point presentations). Recognizing their important contribution to capacity-building, although they are not strictly speaking capacity-building tools and resources as per the above description, these materials are also included in table 1. It is noted that table 1 does not provide a comprehensive list of all ABS awareness-raising materials; it only contains those submitted by the participants in the Informal Advisory Committee and a few others collected by the Secretariat for the meeting.

5. According to the information gathered by the Secretariat, including the submissions received from members of the Informal Advisory Committee, there are at least 45 ABS capacity-building tools and awareness-raising materials. Of these, three tools relate to the design stage of capacity-building and no tools relating to the monitoring and evaluation stage were found or received. However, some information was provided in relation to outcomes and reports of some projects/activities and is included in table 1.

6. The majority of the tools (40 tools) listed in table 1 are used at the implementation/delivery stage. These include:

(a) 20 awareness-raising materials, including videos, PowerPoint presentations and information kits, which may also be used for capacity-building;

(b) 4 sets of learning/training tools and resources, including e-learning modules;

(c) 14 guidance tools, including toolkits, guidelines and handbooks;

(d) 2 analytical tools.

7. Some materials submitted by members of the Informal Advisory Committee not considered to be capacity-building tools and resources or awareness-raising materials have also been made available in table 2 below, for the information of participants. They include regional and international measures (e.g. the African Union guidelines for the coordinated implementation of the Nagoya Protocol on access and benefit-sharing, the translated versions of the Bonn guidelines, etc.), as well as general literature that are not specifically designed for purposes of teaching, providing guidance or facilitating structured learning. Information received relating to capacity-building activities/events is also available in table 2, for the information of the Informal Advisory Committee.

8. In conclusion, although a number of awareness-raising materials have been developed to support the implementation of the Nagoya Protocol, a smaller number of ABS capacity-building tools and resources are currently available for use by Parties, indigenous and local communities and other stakeholders. The Informal Advisory Committee may wish to consider: (a) the need to develop additional tools, in particular learning and training materials, and for which target audience; (b) as well as the type of tools that would be most useful to address the key areas of the strategic framework (e.g. e-learning modules, toolkits, handbooks). The Informal Advisory Committee may also wish to discuss possible options for doing so, including opportunities for collaboration in developing new tools.

9. All the ABS-related tools and resources can be made available through the Virtual Library of the Access and Benefit-sharing Clearing-House when it is fully set up. During the meeting, the Informal Advisory Committee will be invited to provide comments on the draft common format for capacity-building and development tools and resources (UNEP/CBD/ABS/CB-IAC/2015/1/INF/3) developed by the Secretariat to be used by Parties and relevant organizations to make available tools and resources through the Virtual Library.
