Please provide summary information on the process by which this report has been prepared, including information on the types of stakeholders who have been actively involved in its preparation and on material which was used as a basis for the report

Part of the information has been derived from the draft National Biodiversity Strategy and Action Plan which was prepared through national workshops involving government agencies, private sector, research institutions, NGOs, local governments and the media. Thematic aspects of the questionnaire were sent to lead agencies for inputs which were then returned and incorporated in the report. Specific reports were received from the Forest Department, Ministry of Water, Lands and Environment; Uganda Wildlife Authority, Botanical Gardens, National Agricultural Research Organization; Lake Victoria Environment Management Project; Zoology and Botany Departments, Makerere University; Makerere Institute of Environment and Natural Resources.

Please provide information on any particular circumstances in your country that are relevant to understanding the answers to the questions in this report

Uganda signed and ratified the Convention on Biological Diversity in 1992 and 1993 respectively. Since then Uganda has implemented certain Articles of the Convention including Articles 6,15,19,21 and a few others.

However, most people especially the local communities who are the primary resource users have very little knowledge of the Convention on Biological Diversity. Direct input to the report therefore came from restricted sources mainly at national level. The country has now embarked on some initiatives aimed at popularising the conventions at local and national levels.

The COP has established programmes of work that respond to a number of Articles. Please identify the relative priority accorded to each theme and the adequacy of resources. This will allow subsequent information on implementation of each Article to be put into context. There are other questions on implementation of the programmes of work at the end of these guidelines.

Further comments on work programmes and priorities

There is need to integrate these COP programmes as they relate to inland water biodiversity, agrobiodiversity, forest biodiversity and dry and sub-humid lands (i.e. the savannah woodlands in which most of our National Parks and forest reserves fall) in planning processes both at national and local levels. Although some work is going on sectorally, there is lack of coordination between sectors. There is also need to prepare national master plans which balance food production, economic development and natural resource conservation. There is also need to recognize the importance of biodiversity outside protected areas.

Further comments on implementation of this Article

Uganda is cooperating with quite a number of countries in the management of biodiversity. Examples of such cooperation include participation in the GEF-East African Cross-border biodiversity project (between Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda), Kagera Basin Organisation (between Uganda, Tanzania, Rwanda), Nile Basin Organization (Uganda, Sudan, Egypt), Lake Victoria Environment management project (Uganda, Kenya, Tanzania. International Conventions are presently coordinated by different government agencies with limited coordination. Coordination needs be to improved between conventions such as CBD, CITES, CMS, RAMSAR, UNFCCC and CCD in order to reduce duplication of efforts.

Specific sources of funds for implementing this Article needs to be identified. Most of the activities in the area are highly sectoral. Cooperation in various sectors is more at personal rather than institutional levels. There is need for a deliberate effort to enhance cooperation between sectors especially in the area of information exchange. This cooperation is necessary for effective implementation of cross-cutting issues. There is also need to develop effective mechanisms for integrating biodiversity issues in planning at all levels.

Further comments on implementation of these decisions

The national needs identification and assessment in Taxonomy has been attempted by the Ugandan arm of Eastern African Biosystematics Network of BIONET International but this was not a government initiative and is not well known. The contact institution for this initiative is the Crop Science Department, Makerere University, Kampala.

Many of the international programmes such as the Global Taxonomy Initiative are not known by relevant stakeholders in Uganda due to poor communication between the CBD Focal Point and the stakeholders. Issues of the GTI should be addressed as soon as possible. Uganda was represented at a GTI Africa Regional Workshop in Kirstenbosch, South Africa in early 2001 and the issues discussed at the workshop were very new to the participant.

Most of the present protected area systems were established before Uganda got independence in 1962. A lot has been done towards conservation of wildlife both in and outside protected areas. Policies have been developed, strategies and systems put in place. Plans have been developed and implemented. These all include management of protected areas, involvement of stakeholders especially local communities and ensuring that the latter gain benefits from conservation. Resources are limiting operations since Uganda Wildlife Authority does not generate enough revenue to cover all costs. Heavy dependence on donor funding which is also not adequate. Ex-Situ conservation as part of the Genetic Resource activities, has been identified as one of the priority project areas in the National Agricultural Research Organization's Mid-Term Plan (2001-2005). The efforts now are geared towards resource mobilization to enable implementation of the activities. Most of the existing ex situ facilities are in a state of disrepair and need rehabilitation. The facilities are also generally inadequate. All these will require funds both nationally and internationally.

Further comments on implementation of this Article

There has been one specific regional meeting which was held in 2000 in Dar-es-Salaam, Tanzania which brought together representatives from Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda. It was funded by UNDP-GEF East Africa Cross-border biodiversity project. It was part of preparation for 5th Conference of the Parties to the CBD which was later held in Nairobi, Kenya. Such meetings are very useful for preparing delegates to participate in the COP. Unfortunately, they are usually constrained by lack of funds. Lack of funds also limits the number of participants that can be sent by the country to the international meetings of the convention.

Through the East African Community, there are plans to have approaches such as the ecosystem approach adopted. Through regional projects such as the UNDP-GEF Cross-border biodiversity project encompassing Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda, the ecosystem concept is being piloted. Implementation of the Lake Victoria Management Project is now in its fourth year, and solid progress has been made within all the ten components of the project. The components include Fisheries management, Fisheries research, Water Hyacinth control, water quality and quantity monitoring, industrial and municipal waste management, land use management, catchment afforestation, wetlands management and support for human capacity building all coordinated by the National Secretariat of the Project. All the components have been able to locate and quantify some of the environmental problems arising from the increasing human activities around the shores of the lake. This is an effort to build up baseline information. Inventory and characteristics of the sources of pollution and nutrient inflows into the lake are being compiled with a view to implementing solutions. Efforts are being made throughout the project to involve local communities, NGOs and CBOs in order to ensure the ownership of the project activities.

There are sectoral programmes e.g. in the Ministry of Agriculture, Animal Industry and Fisheries which, although not explicitly addressing these decisions and associated programme of work, are nevertheless related to the issues. A major constraint as of now is lack of coordination of these activities among the relevant sectors.

Please use this box to identify what specific activities your country has carried out as a DIRECT RESULT of becoming a Contracting Party to the Convention, referring back to previous questions as appropriate:

Uganda has prepared the National Biodiversity Strategy and Action Plan in response to Article 6 of the Convention

In response to Article 15 of the CBD, Uganda is in an advance stage of preparing Regulations on Access to Genetic Resources and Benefit Sharing in Uganda

Uganda signed the Biosafety Protocol in 2000 in response to Article 19 of the Convention

By being a Contracting Party, Uganda has accessed considerable amount of funding from the GEF for projects such as the Lake Victoria Environment Management project, East Africa Cross-Border Biodiversity project, all of which address important issues of biodiversity concern in Uganda

Uganda is committed to meeting its financial obligations to the Convention and presently it has no outstanding debt in this regard.

Uganda is presently exploring opportunities for collaboration with other global environmental conventions such as Ramsar, Climate Change and the Convention to Combat Desertification through UNDP-GEF funding.

Please use this box to identify joint initiatives with other Parties, referring back to previous questions as appropriate:

The East Africa Cross-Border Biodiversity project aims at improving management of forests and wetlands across the borders of Uganda, Kenya and Tanzania.

There is a new GEF Kagera River Basin Project aimed at conservation and sustainable use of biodiversity along the river basin jointly run by Uganda, Rwanda and Tanzania.

The Lake Victoria Environment Management Project is looking at fresh water biodiversity as a joint project involving Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda.

Please use this box to provide any further comments on matters related to national implementation of the Convention:

Issues of the CBD are not well understood by the majority of Ugandan society. A lot of awareness raising is still needed. However, there are hardly any funds for implementing CBD issues.

There also very few specific activities in the country which are being carried out as a direct result of becoming a Contracting Party to the Convention. Specific decision of the Conference of the Parties and the programme of work on thematic and cross-cutting issues are not being internalized and implemented because because of limited awareness of convention issues in Uganda and because of lack of funds to undertake the necessary consultations.

The wording of these questions is based on the Articles of the Convention and the decisions of the Conference of the Parties. Please provide information on any difficulties that you have encountered in interpreting the wording of these questions

It does not cater for questions which are not relevant or not applicable. For instance, Uganda is a land-locked country and generally has no interest in coastal and marine biodiversity but the questions have no room for not relevant answer.

If your country has completed its national biodiversity strategy and action plan (NBSAP), please give the following information:

Date of completion:	Uganda's NBSAP is not yet completed so all subsequent questions are not relevant
