The Root of the Problem – What's Driving Tropical Deforestation Today?

Deforestation and forest degradation have been occurring for thousands of years. But why? And what are the causes of these changes—the "drivers" of deforestation? In this report, the Union of Concerned Scientists explains these drivers and shows that they have changed fundamentally in the twenty-first century. For the full report, executive summary, and to download chapters on specific drivers, visit: http://www.ucsusa.org/global_warming/solutions/forest_solutions/drivers-of-deforestation.html.
